

Abdón Pedrajas

Employment Department

Spain

Current View:

Europe

Contacts

- Chambers Review
- Department Profile
- Ranked Lawyers

This content is provided by Chambers. Learn more about our methodology

What the team is known for

Dedicated boutique active in collective conflicts, boardroom disputes and discrimination claims. Often advises on collective and individual dismissals and restructurings. Has a number of domestic and international clients from the manufacturing, telecommunications and banking industries. Assists with the employment aspects of transactions, representing a range of employers in negotiations with trade unions. Also handles issues in connection with outsourcing projects.

Strengths

Sources appreciate that the lawyers "get straight to the point and contribute clear conclusions to complex labour law problems."

Clients report that "the legal advice is well founded on expertise in employment law and recent cases," and say that the lawyers are "extremely dedicated and well prepared, so you know you are in safe hands."

Notable practitioners

Inés Molero Navarro advises clients on collective and individual hirings and dismissals. She is also highly regarded for her expertise in contentious employment matters. "She is a great litigator and her presentations to judges are clear," enthuse sources, who appreciate that "she gives us security with sensitive matters and gives us the comfort to take legal decisions on reasonable grounds."

Iván López García de la Riva rises in the rankings after receiving praise for his litigation skills and critical role in the firm's employment department. He specialises in collective claims related to outsourcing agreements and changes in employment terms.

Sonia Cortés is particularly well versed in advising clients on collective redundancies and contentious cases stemming from collective agreements. She also assists international clients with the employment aspects of setting up business operations in Spain. Sources appreciate that she "always provides well-balanced and sound advice."